WaterTower

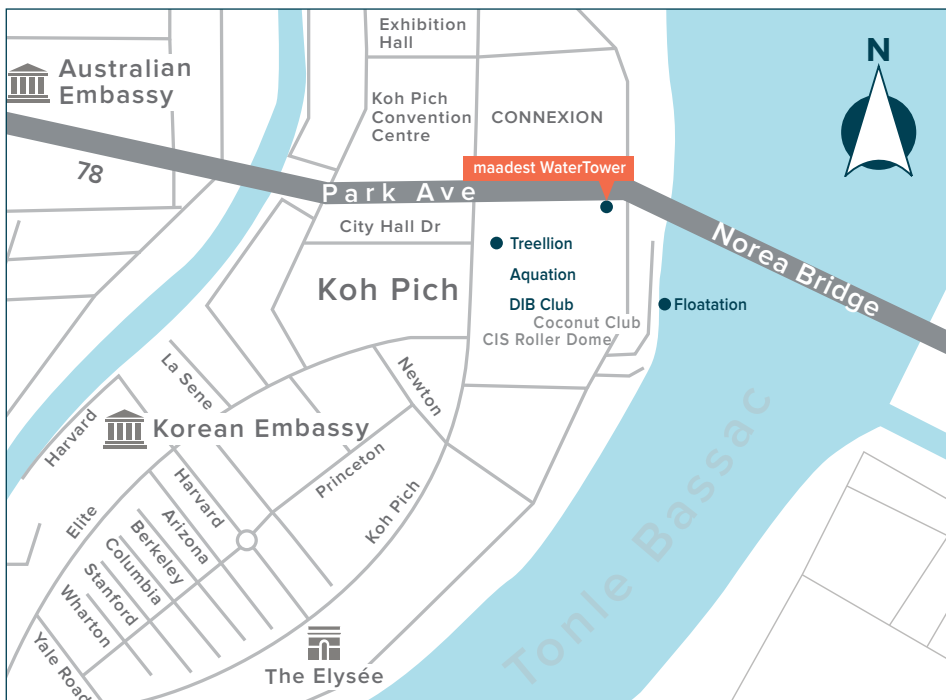

MAADS™ HOTELS

Sky Suite & Pool

WaterTower – Sky Pool & Suite is part of maadest's collection of eccentric rooms created from floating, movable or repurposed structures tailored to their environment. This former metal water tower has been redesigned as a triplex suite, with the tank becoming a rooftop plunge pool.

Rising well above Koh Pich (Diamond Island), the two-level living and sleeping areas and the top terrace-pool offer eagle's-eye views of the surrounding park, Koh Norea Bridge, Four Rivers and the Mekong. Reimagining Phnom Penh's urban landscape with bold, up-cycled architecture lifted into the sky.

Design and Concept / Architectural Repurposing

Before

The project reflects architectural reuse, giving new life to an abandoned structure through adaptive design. The structure preserved its original form with minimal alteration. Recycled glass and reclaimed materials shape the interiors, highlighting MAADS' approach which connects sustainability, creativity, and local artistry. As part of maadest, WaterTower ambitions to pave the way for future conversions that would further blend architectural imagination with environmental awareness.

After

The vertical suite with living and sleeping areas sits right beneath the original water tank, now turned into a sky pool. The cooler water above the room refreshes its ceiling naturally, reducing the use of air-conditioning. The SkyPool was adorned with Khmer kbach motifs done by local artist SreyLatt TOEM.
