Prahok, Prahok Powder and Prahok Ktiss: a Symphony of Cambodian Flavours.

Prahok is a fermented fish paste – the soul of Khmer cuisine – used since the Khmer Empire. The Prahok is said to be in every home in Cambodia, a sign Cambodians cannot live without it.

Prahok Powder is a traditional Prahok transformed into Powder through a unique process developed by Confirel. It better adapts to modern Western, Asian as well as Cambodian cuisines, bringing a unique and authentically Khmer taste to all forms of preparations.

Prahok Ktiss is an other culinary preparation developed by Confirel, in line with typical Khmer gastronomy: Prahok Powder is blended with coconut milk, palm sugar, lemongrass, turmeric, kaffir lime, garlic and red chili. It then becomes a condiment with a soft creamy texture, marrying salty, spicy and subtle sweet flavours.

Confirel, by creating KIRUM Prahok Powder and KIRUM Prahok Ktiss, which it now exports to quite a few countries around the world, has opened new horizons to authentic Khmer products, reaching international cuisines.

These products, along with this menu, reflect Confirel's commitment to highlight Khmer gastronomy, with dishes combining Cambodian and Western recipes.

Enjoy!
